

Key Staff in School

Mr Heathcote (Headteacher)

My job is to make sure that all of the children are safe, happy and working really hard! I spend lots of my time making sure that the school is well organised and that everyone knows what they should be doing. I really enjoy doing an assembly with the whole school on a Monday and a Friday as I get to see the whole school together all at once. I also like going around classes each week to see some of the amazing things that are going on in school! Parents will often come into school to talk to me if they are worried about something and I will always do my best to try and sort this out as soon as possible.

Mrs Pask (Deputy Headteacher)

I have worked at Isaac Newton for 17 years and I love it! My job is to ensure that all the children have access to a curriculum that they can thrive from and which encourages them to be eager, resilient learners. I am also responsible for reading across the school– it is really important to us that all children have a love of reading. My main responsibility is for making sure that children attend school regularly– at least 96% of school days! I often hold meetings with parents/carers and talk to children about ways in which we can help them still come to school, even if they are a bit worried about something. We can't wait to see you all and give you a big Isaac Newton welcome!!

Mrs Beeby (Assistant Headteacher)

My job is to support the health and wellbeing of pupils and their families. If you have concerns about your child or are facing any difficulties as a family then I will always do my best to try and get you the support you need. Often a chat is all it needs! Another part of my role is to pupils who need extra help with their learning. I work closely with pupils, their parents, teachers and teaching assistants to give advice on a range of resources and strategies that will best support your child in school and help them to progress.
